

Max Headroom: 20 Minutes into the Future

Pilot (Movie) Thu April 4, 1985

In the future, television is more important than food, and TV ratings are the currency of the world. News reporter, Edison Carter, is investigating a new technology that can prevent viewers from channel surfing. Unfortunately, it has terrible side effects. Just as Edison is about to discover the truth, he has an “accident,” leaving him dying. But boy-genius Bryce uploads his brain, and a computer generated alter-ego, Max Headroom, is born. Sure, Max has Edison’s memories, but he also has a manic need to be the center of attention. At all times. Network executives are torn between keeping their secrets and capitalizing on Max’s ratings popularity.
